THEATRICAL OFFERINGS

'THE TYPHOON' SO REALISTIC IT MUSTN'T BE TAKEN TOO SERIOUSLY

"For the honor and glory of Japan, Banzai!"

This summarizes the ostensible meaning of the film-play "The Typhoon," presented before an invited audience at the Popular theater yesterday afternoon by Manager Brodhead because of the advance criticism—largely stimulated—of the play and the suggestion that it should not be presented in Honolulu.

To interpret the meaning of the quoted lines above, let the story of the play be briefly told:

A group of trusted Japanese emissaries are sent from Tokyo to Paris, among them Tokoro and Hironari, two young men, and Baron Joshikawa, a wily elderly man. To Tokoro is delegated the duty of securing a secret estimate of France's military strength, in the course of his residence in Paris he falls in love with an actress, Helene, and believes her assurances that no other man had ever entered her life. When he learns the truth from another lover he orders the girl to leave him and never to return. She turns on him and pours out reproaches and taunts at his "yellow skin" until a veritable typhoon of rage engulfs him and he kills her with his hands. To save his life and allow him to finish his secret spy work his Japanese associates sacrifice his young friend, Hironari, who is executed on the guillotine. The French government learns of his theft of military plans and the baron burns them to prevent seizure.

It is "for the honor and glory of Japan" that Tokoro steals military secrets and for the same principle that Hironari consents to die for another's crime.

The play is acted with remarkable realism and vividness—in fact, in these very qualities lie whatever of object might be made to it. "Hawaii has seen plenty of film-shows where the military plans of one country are stolen by the representatives of another country; and seen also plenty of film-shows where people are killed by violence. Where "The Typhoon" might offend the sensitive or stir prejudice is in its portrayal of the gusts of passion that lead the Japanese to kill his mistress and in the emphasis laid on the plotting of the Japanese representatives while in another country.

The play is not likely to offend American spectators, even though in spots it is rather strong. There is enough improbability about even the most highly-flavored scenes to relieve the tension. Furthermore, local theatrical patrons have very little of race prejudice to arouse. It is not a story for girls or impressionable youth; nor is it a story for men and women who are unable to realize the artificiality and the spectacular exaggeration of such film-dramas. But on the whole the "haole" audience probably will neither object to "The Typhoon" nor take it very seriously.

Perhaps the Japanese may object on the ground that the striving after an effect of deep patriotism to their country is nothing but insincere moving picture enterprise, in this they would be justified. But more probably they will not take the picture seriously, either.

There appears to be no reason why this high-flavored and much-berated drama on the screen should not be presented in Honolulu. It is splendidly acted. It is staged by wizards of their art. It has many touches of power. But it cannot be recommended for those of a nervous disposition, nor for those who resent the use of race prejudice as a dramatic theme.

While not a new story by any means, a highly satisfactory drama has been evolved from a novel by Booth Tarkington called "The Two Van Rellens." With Mabel Trunnelle taking a prominent part, the play will be a feature in the program of late maintained releases to be shown at the Empire theater today. "Tarkington's clever story deals with Carve, who has sworn to kill Van Rell, if he sets foot on his property. Both Van Rell and a friend named Gray are in love with Betty Carve. Gray has been posing as Van Rell. He makes amends by allowing himself to be killed by the elder Carve in place of his rival and best friend.

"The Foolish Agreement" deals with a series of interesting questions. Bliss Mulford, Gladys Huletta, Barry O'Moore, John Sturgeon, and Charles Sutton make much of the parts assigned to them. If you were penniless and a few hundred dollars would save you from utter ruin and that money were deposited in a safe, the combination of which you knew, would you resist the temptation to take the money? In "The Foolish Agreement" at the Empire today, Harry Wallace and his friend fail to stand the test.

The second chapter in the "Wooling of Sophia" will be shown in the farcomedy, "Sophia Finds a Hero." "Brown's Butler" is a popular Broadway comedy making its first appearance in this city.

PRACTICAL PRESCRIPTION AGAINST STOMACH ACIDITY

Nine-tenths of all cases of stomach trouble nowadays are caused by too much acid. In the beginning the stomach itself is not diseased but if this acid condition is allowed to continue, the acid is very likely to eat into the stomach walls and produce stomach ulcers which may render a radical surgical operation necessary even to prolong life. Therefore, an "acid stomach" is really a dangerous condition and should be treated seriously. It is utterly useless to take peppermint and ordinary stomach tablets. The excess acid or stomach hyper-acidity must be neutralized by the administration of an efficient acid.

For this purpose the best remedy is bisulphate of magnesia taken in teaspoonful doses in a fourth of a glass of water after each meal. Larger quantities may be used if necessary as it is absolutely harmless. Be sure to ask your druggist for the bisulphate of magnesia as other forms of magnesia make effective mouth washes but they have not the same action on the stomach as the bisulphate. The Tipperary cocktail has made its appearance in Atlantic City, its components being things Irish and other things not Irish, but nevertheless green. As a fitting climax its inventor answers to the name of Jake Erpenbeck.

Sheriff Conway of Marion county, W. Va., appealed to Governor Hatfield for militia to quell disturbances in the miners' strike at Farmington, where 1000 strikers attacked a sheriff's posse, injuring five men, one fatally.

Such is the creed of Sir Joseph Bowley, the squire of the district in which the scene of "The Onions," by Charles Dickens, now being shown at Ye Liberty theater—also held. The pictures were actually taken in England, the characters all being Englishmen, and it is like taking a trip to the British Isles to follow this beautiful story through on the picture screen. There are many in Honolulu who have been through the mill in England and have voiced their approval of the true representations of the deplorable relations between the poor of England and their landlords. This great feature has had a decidedly successful run and will be shown for the last time tonight.

Beginning Wednesday matinee "The Dollar Mark," featuring Robert "Wack" will open the engagement at Ye Liberty theater, following a run of five weeks in one theater in Los Angeles. It is reputed to be the strongest drama ever attempted in motion pictures. There are five exciting acts of intensified love, finance and treachery. The play has been a record-breaker wherever shown, and the management has been working for the past three months in their effort to secure this great masterpiece for Honolulu. On account of the heavy demand for it on the coast, the film will be run for one week only at Ye Liberty. Extra seats have been installed and all provisions made for handling the crowds in the big theater.
